

Walk Away

When you wake up
Every morning in another bed
And you don't remember
Where you are

When you turn around
And you're looking for a real good friend
Then you know
Your only friend is your guitar

The whole wide world you wanted to see
Open up doors – hey, maybe

You've got to walk away
You've got to walk away
You've got to walk away
To find home eventually

They say
You never can swim in the same water twice
But that place at the seaside
I will never forget

And they say
Follow love when it's calling you
I will be there
The same day and the same place we met

The whole wide world can wait for me
I'll look up at the sky and swim in the sea - but

You've got to walk away...

There's a time to learn
And a time to know
Now I know when it's time
To stay and to go
I'm in the moment
And I feel free
I found home eventually - but

You've got to walk away...
